Before you invest in any mutual fund, consider how the fund would work with your other investments and your tolerance for risk.

This mutual fund is an alternative mutual fund. It is permitted to invest in asset classes or use investment strategies that are not permitted for other types of mutual funds. The specific strategies that differentiate this fund from other types of mutual funds may include: increased ability to take concentrated investment positions; increased ability to sell securities short; and the ability to borrow cash to use for investment purposes. While these strategies will be used in accordance with the fund's investment objectives and strategies, during certain market conditions they may accelerate the pace at which your investment decreases in value.

What does the fund invest in?

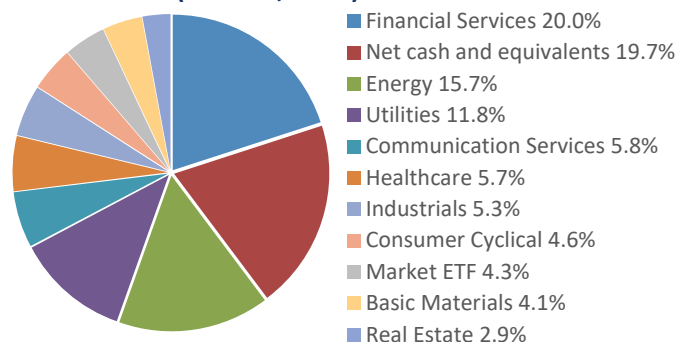

The fund seeks to achieve long-term capital appreciation by acquiring primarily securities that are trading below their intrinsic value, as determined by Tim McElvaine. The fund primarily invests in common shares of publicly-traded companies located in Canada, the United States and other foreign jurisdictions. However, the fund may also invest in debt securities, preferred shares, convertible securities, securities of private companies, options, futures, currency instruments, precious metal certificates or bullion. The fund may use leverage through cash borrowing (up to 33% of the fund's net asset value) and short selling (up to 50% of the fund's net asset value). However, the fund's aggregate gross exposure to these sources of leverage must not exceed 50% of the fund's net asset value, as calculated in accordance with section 2.9.1 of National Instrument 81-102 Investment Funds.

How risky is it?

The value of the fund can go down as well as up. You could lose money.

One way to gauge risk is to look at how much a fund's returns change over time. This is called "volatility".

In general, funds with higher volatility will have returns that change more over time. They typically have a greater chance of losing money and may have a greater chance of higher returns. Funds with lower volatility tend to have returns that change less over time. They typically have lower returns and may have a lower chance of losing money.

Risk rating

McElvaine Investment Management Ltd. has rated the volatility of this fund as medium.

This rating is based on how much the fund's returns have changed from year to year. It doesn't tell you how volatile the fund will be in the future. The rating can change over time. A fund with a low risk rating can still lose money.

For more information about the risk rating and specific risks that can affect the fund's returns, see the "Specific Information about The McElvaine Investment Trust – What are the risks of investing in the fund?" section of the fund's simplified prospectus.

No guarantees

Like most mutual funds, this fund does not have any guarantees. You may not get back the money you invest.

How has the fund performed?

This section tells you how Series D units of the fund have performed in the past. Returns are after expenses have been deducted. These expenses reduce the fund's returns.

Year by Year returns

This information is not available because the fund has been distributing Series D units for less than one calendar year.

Best and worst 3-month returns

This information is not available because the fund has been distributing Series D units for less than one calendar year.

Average return

This information is not available because the fund has been distributing Series D units for less than 12 consecutive months.

Who is this fund for?

The fund may be suitable for investors who are:

- seeking long-term capital appreciation
- not concerned by short-term price fluctuations
- willing to accept moderate risk
- planning to hold their investment for the long-term.

Don't buy this fund if you need a steady source of income from your investment, have a short-term investment time horizon or are unwilling to accept moderate fluctuations in fund value.

A word about tax

In general, you'll have to pay income tax on any money you make on a fund. How much you pay depends on the tax laws where you live and whether or not you hold the fund in a registered plan, such as a Registered Retirement Savings Plan or a Tax-Free Savings Account.

Keep in mind that if you hold your fund in a non-registered account, fund distributions are included in your taxable income, whether you get them in cash or have them reinvested.

How much does it cost?

The following tables show the fees and expenses you could pay to buy, own and sell Series D units of the fund. The fees and expenses — including any commissions — can vary among series of the fund and among funds. Higher commissions can influence representatives to recommend one investment over another. Ask about other funds and investments that may be suitable for you at a lower cost.

1. Sales charges

The fund does not impose a sales charge. Your representative or representative's firm may charge you a sales charge, commission or service fee. These charges are negotiated between you and your representative or representative's firm.

2. Fund expenses

You don't pay these expenses directly. They affect you because they reduce the fund's returns. The fund's expenses are made up of the management fee, operating expenses and trading costs. The series' annual management fee is 0.85% of the series' value. Because this series is new, its operating expenses and trading costs are not yet available.

McElvaine Investment Management Ltd. will receive a performance incentive fee from the fund in respect of Series D units equal to 20% of the amount by which the net asset value of each unit of the series (or sub-series within the series) on the last business day of June each year (the "Performance Valuation Date") exceeds the applicable High Water Mark (defined below) plus a 6% hurdle. McElvaine Investment Management Ltd. may establish a new sub-series within Series D on each date that Series D units are issued, and it may consolidate sub-series within Series D from time to time, provided the applicable High Water Mark does not decrease as a result of the consolidation. McElvaine Investment Management Ltd. uses sub-series in this manner to ensure performance incentive fees are charged on an equitable basis. The "High Water Mark" for Series D units (or a sub-series of units within Series D) is the greater of (i) the initial net asset value per unit of the series (or sub-series), and (ii) the net asset value per unit of the series (or sub-series) on the Performance Valuation Date in respect of which a performance incentive fee was last paid for the series (or sub-series).

More about the trailing commission

The trailing commission is an ongoing commission. It is paid for as long as you own the fund. It is for the services and/or advice that your representative and the representative's firm provide to you.

McElvaine Investment Management Ltd. pays the trailing commission to your representative's firm. It is paid from the fund's management fee and is based on the value of your investment. The maximum annual trailing commission for Series D units is 0.25%. This equals $2.50 each year for every $1,000 invested.

3. Other fees

You may have to pay other fees when you buy, hold, sell or switch units of the fund.

Fee	What you pay
Short-term trading fee	McElvaine Investment Management Ltd. has the discretion to charge you up to 2% of the net asset value of your units if you redeem your units within 90 days of purchasing units of the fund. This fee will be paid to the fund.

What if I change my mind?

Under securities law in some provinces and territories, you have the right to:

- Withdraw from an agreement to buy mutual fund units within two business days after you receive a simplified prospectus or Fund Facts document, or
- Cancel your purchase within 48 hours after you receive confirmation of the purchase.

In some provinces and territories, you also have the right to cancel a purchase, or in some jurisdictions, claim damages, if the simplified prospectus, annual information form, Fund Facts document or financial statements contain a misrepresentation. You must act within the time limit set by the securities law in your province or territory.

For more information, see the securities law of your province or territory or ask a lawyer.
